

The Peddler and the Baker (Literally in Hebrew: Pleasure's All Ours)

Written by: Yael Molchadsky

Illustrated by: Liora Grossman

Suggestions for Family Activities

When the pleasant smell of bread baked by the baker reaches his neighbor, should his neighbor pay for it? – This book suggests that bakers, peddlers, and readers be kind and open up their hearts to one another, while cherishing the many things in our world that are given to us for free, for the benefit of all.

Three matters ease one's mind, and they are: Voice, sight, and smell

[Talmud Bavli, Brachot 57b]

A discussion on things that are wonderful and free

What gives you pleasure for free? – You may want to take a look at the illustration in which the wise man presents all the good things in our world that are given to us for free, and share your opinion of them with one another – Do you also enjoy them? And which other things that are given for free do you like?

Listening to a story

The story of the baker, peddler, and wise man is yours to listen to by scanning the code.

Illustrations – A girl and boy

A girl and boy appear in many of the illustrations in this book. You may enjoy looking for them as you leaf through it, and thinking of reasons why the illustrator chose to add them to the illustrations together.

Challah and a pleasant smell

Would you like to make challah? A recipe is waiting for you on the final pages of this book. Bon Appetit and enjoy the wonderful aroma that will fill your home.
