On August 6, 2018, Cisco Systems, Inc. (the “Company”) and Arista Networks, Inc. (“Arista”) entered into a binding Term Sheet resolving, except as described below, all of the outstanding litigation between the companies. The terms material to the Company are as follows:

- Arista shall pay $400 million to the Company, which would be reflected in the Company’s first quarter fiscal 2019 results.
- The Company will not assert against Arista patents that were included in the litigation as long as Arista shall continue to implement workarounds it had put in place to certain of those patents.
- For three years (subject to earlier termination in some circumstances), any claim regarding patent infringement of any new products, or new features of existing products, will be resolved by an arbitration process; the process will not apply to claims of copyright infringement, trade secret misappropriation or certain other claims.
- For five years, neither party will bring an action against the other for patent or copyright (except for any claims of source code misappropriation) infringement regarding their respective products currently on the market.
- Certain limited changes shall be implemented by Arista to its user interfaces for operation of its products; and the parties will continue to undertake the appeal of the ruling in Federal District Court for the Northern District of California regarding copyright infringement, with further limited changes if the case is remanded or reversed.
