Krystal M. Lechner

Chief Diva of Smashing Divas Makeup Artistry Studio

What's a DIVA?

You are beautiful, bold, confident.
You live in an authentic presence.
You love yourself and give back to others.
You RADIATE to the world.

Most of all, you are DIVAlicious! YOU know it ;) Why? Because you are the STAR! We're here to celebrate you!

Ready to be DIVA-fied? Book a makeup artistry appointment with the Chief DIVA; and become DIVAlicious, in a wink! ;)

About the Chief Diva:

Krystal M. Lechner, Chief Diva Makeup Artist & Hairstylist, is on a mission of empowering people worldwide through makeup artistry. She loves the art of transformation. When she witnesses a client light up after being DIVA-fied through her talent, it is the moment she lives for.

Transforming herself by losing 125 lbs in 2 years, she established Smashing Divas Makeup Artistry Studio in 2009 to pay forward the experience of personal transformation to others. She inaugurates those who embody the DIVA spirit, as an honorary member of the DIVAtribe.

As a self-taught makeup artist, the talent naturally comes to her. She's also received intensive makeup artistry training at the astute Gene Juarez Salons & Spas. She relishes in the constant challenge, creativity, and muses of delight in the role as makeup artist. She loves the creative side of artistry in the fashion industry: how transformation can support a brand, a marketing campaign, or bring PR buzz to a hot fashion line.

She approaches makeup like a designer, scientist, artist, architect, marketer, businesswoman. She listens to her clients, conducts research, tests application methods, invents new methods, designs a process and system, and executes the makeup design with passion and vigor. In her portfolio, you will see face charts. These charts highlight the thought process of the Chief Diva, but also serve as creative briefs for the client.

Her work has been published in Imposter Magazine, the Crave Company Seattle's "Urban Gal's Guide to Shopping Manifesto", seen on Seattle's King 5 NBC TV show, "New Day Northwest", and fashion blogs. She's also published as a best-selling co-author with Dr. Wayne Dyer & Brian Tracy; highlighting, "Live Life Boldy....the 7 Keys to Success!" It's about the lessons she learned while losing 125 pounds, and how you can apply them to your life.

The Chief Diva holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Pacific Lutheran University, has studied advanced graphic design at School of Visual Concepts, and served on the American Institute of Graphic Arts Seattle Chapter Board, in her previous career as a graphic designer. The intensive study of graphic design translates well to makeup design and artistry. She has the capacity to see a vision from the client's side and the craft's side, to execute a business idea into a campaign.

When asked what's her key philosophy to success:

"Be Bold! Ask for what you want. Dare yourself into new challenges! Make the most of it! This is your business. This is your life. Most of all, be passionate!"

Very DIVAlicious!

What is Seattle fashion?

When you think of Seattle fashion, what do you picture?

While you might answer leggings and short dresses, skinny jeans and clunky glasses, or maybe just jeans with a peacoat, not everyone in the country sees us that way.

Grunge was the last time Seattle was known for a fashion trend. But most of us aren't sporting baggy jeans, flannel shirts and boots anymore.

Steven Matsumoto, the co-founder of the Seattle Fashion Incubator, wants to change that perception and bring more of the fashion business to the Emerald City.

"Seattle fashion is hard to pigeonhole. It is eclectic. It's about expressing oneself and creativity," said Matsumoto.

But he says fashion isn't just about what we're wearing, the business of fashion could bring big bucks to the Seattle area. That's why a group of folks in the Seattle Fashion Incubator want to find a new fashion identity for Seattle.

"Fashion is actually a broad category. Yes, there are designers, but there's also manufacturing. In Seattle we have a lack of infrastructure. Seattle needs to reinvest in the industry. We're losing talent to LA and New York."

According to the Washington Department of Revenue, fashion and apparel business revenues were $8.3 million in 2009. That's down from $9.2 million in 2008.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that right now Seattle has about 240 fashion designers. Seattle also has an above average concentration of fashion and apparel manufacturing talent, which includes dressmakers, custom sewers, and fabric and apparel pattern-makers.

So what does all of this mean?

Matsumoto says there is a lot of talent in this city, but they're not seeing their full potential. He says many of them just need help getting their businesses off the ground.

"The Fashion Incubator would help break down barriers to entry. Sometimes people are excellent designers but the business end of things escapes them. They need mentors," said Matsumoto.

Matsumoto wants Georgetown or SODO to turn into a garment district in the next five to ten years.

The Seattle Fashion Incubator will work with grant money, as well as dollars from fundraising.

"15 to 20 years from now, I want Seattle to be a fashion epicenter," said Matsumoto.

To find out more about the Seattle Fashion Incubator, you can contact Steven Matsumoto on Twitter: @StevenMatsumoto \(http://twitter.com/%21/StevenMatsumoto\) You can also find more info on the Incubator's Facebook Fan Page \(http://www.facebook.com/%21/pages/Emerald-City-Fashion-Week/139250308473\).

PREP:

1) Apply primer to face. Loreal, Smashbox Photofinish Primer, or Makeup Forever HD Primer make good ones. I always like suggesting a budget option and a more expensive option. Ulta sells Smashbox in sample tubes for $16, but they last forever due to high concentration.

1.5) sweep heavy amount of translucent powder under eyes to catch fallout.

RAVES!

“Due to an unforeseen circumstance I was unable to provide bridal make-up for a beautiful client in Seattle, Washington on her wedding day. Luckily I was able to have Krystal Lechner step into the mix seamlessly. The bride was ecstatic about how flawless she looked and the photos are fabulous! If I ever have clients to refer or that I cannot accommodate I will absolutely send them to Ms. Lechner. Her professionalism is only surpassed by her extensive knowledge and talent with make-up.” November 5, 2011

Over the past three years that I have known her, I've been struck by her drive for results, amazing relationship-building skills, and her ability to stay focused on the BIG picture. She does whatever it takes to get the job done, with a win/win attitude, and unmatched perseverance. I highly endorse her for any task or venture that you might have. “I have seen Krystal work and I couldn't be more impressed. Came on time tremendously prepared and equipped, and brings a calming and in-control professionalism that inspires confidence. Obviously exceptionally dedicated, and the results we received couldn't have been more amazing: our model looked like she fell right out of the pages of Vogue magazine, I truly was blown away by the high fashion results. Krystal also has an outstanding personality and we very much enjoyed having her. Overall, we will definitely be calling Krystal again, and would very highly recommend her to others.”

“Krystal is an amazing Makeup Artist, she applies the makeup with such creativity, the second she sees your face, she will know right there and then what look you need and what best fits your face. She is such a creative person herself and she bring joy and happiness to the workplace without distracting anyone and without it interfering with her job. I have to say, she is the best MUA I have worked with to date. She knows what will make your eyes pop, she knows what color to use for your bone cheeks, she knows your face as soon as you walk in the door.
