

The House of Commons and the Parliamentary Digital Service respect your rights to privacy

In line with our responsibilities under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and Data Protection Act 2018 this Privacy Notice explains the personal data that we collect from you and how we use your information.

In this Privacy Notice, references to 'us', 'our' or 'we' are to the House of Commons and the Parliamentary Digital Service. Everything that we do with your data – for example storing it, working with it or deleting it – is referred to as "processing".

About the House of Commons and Parliamentary Digital Service

The Corporate Officer (Clerk of the House) is the Controller of any personal data processed by the House of Commons and the Parliamentary Digital Service.

The Data Protection Officer is the Head of Information Rights and Information Security.

If you have any questions about the use of your personal data, please contact the Data Protection Officer as follows:

Email - IRIS@parliament.uk

Telephone – 0207 219 4296

Post – IRIS Service, House of Commons, SW1A 0AA.

There are also some joint services, where the Recruitment and Onboarding team provides a service to both Houses of Parliament (such as The Parliament Graduate Development Programme. In these cases, the House of Commons and the House of Lords are considered joint controllers of the personal data processed for that purpose. You can access the House of Lords' privacy notice here

The personal data we collect

- The information we process about you is provided by you through our online e-Recruitment form and system, including, but not limited to:
- Names, e-mails, address, phone numbers etc.
- Screening/Selection Information (your CV /Resume, education results, work experience, significant achievements)
- Evaluation and testing data (Information provided by other people involved in the recruitment process about your suitability for employment and your status within the recruitment process)
- Your feedback on the recruitment process
- Special Requirements
- Optional information provided by you e.g. medical needs, dietary requirements, disability, dyslexia, study abroad. ☐ Candidate Contractual Information
- Information provided by you which is required for final contract (in addition to Personal Details), acceptance of offer.

- Other Contractual Information
- Information added by us to draw up contract e.g. salary, job title, hours.
- On-Boarding Information
- Additional information supplied by you to complete the hiring process and may include bank details, proof of right to work, next of kin, etc.
- Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Information
- Gender, Race, Religion, Veteran, Disability, or other diversity information

We consider the lawful bases for processing to be:

- The processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract (article 6(1)(b) of the GDPR); and
- for special category data, the data subject has given explicit consent to the processing of those personal data for one or more specified purposes (Article 9 (2)(a) of the GDPR) or the processing is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of the controller or of the data subject in the field of employment. purposes (Article 9 (2)(b) of the GDPR)

If you would like to know more about the processing or reasons we are using your personal data, please contact the Recruitment and Onboarding Team on 020 7219 6011 in the first instance. Details about the lawful basis for processing personal data can be found on the Information Commissioner's website here

Who we share your personal data with

We will only share your personal data where there is a lawful basis for doing so. We will never share or sell your personal data to other organisations for their direct marketing purposes.

We share your data with suppliers of our recruitment software to manage recruitment campaigns and to third-party testing providers for the purpose of carrying out evaluation and testing of your suitability for a job.

We may also share your data with trusted partners or other organisations we are running recruitment campaigns with for the purposes of secondments, placements and joint working ventures. Where this is the case, the job description will be made available to you via the e-recruitment system at the point of application and will provide full details of those other parties.

Occasionally, we may invite an external practitioner or subject expert to join an interview panel. Where this is the case, your personal data will be shared with that individual as part of the recruitment process and your invite to interview will include details about the panel.

We may also share your personal data when there is a legal requirement to do so, for example with the Police or similar organisations for the prevention and detection of crime or security purposes.

Storage and retention of your personal data

The House of Commons and the Parliamentary Digital Service, and any third party data processors, organisations or partners working our behalf, will retain your personal data for as long as is necessary for the purpose it was collected:

- Following an offer of employment, all personal data will be retained up to 18 months after the completion of the recruitment process.
- If you are not made an offer, or you reject an offer, we will keep your personal data for up to 18 months after the end of recruitment process to allow for any recruitment queries, employment tribunals or other legal challenges.
- After the 18-month retention period we will anonymise your personal data. The data retained is used to report on the historical performance of our recruitment process.

Disclosure and security of your personal data

All personal data you provide will be stored securely, both physically and electronically, in accordance with our policies. We have an information security process in place to oversee the effective and secure processing of your personal data. Personal data is held in data centres within the UK for the purposes of hosting, maintenance and back up

In limited cases, we (or processors acting on our behalf) may also store or process your personal data in countries outside the European Economic Area but only where we are assured of the security of the data.

We have put in place technical and organisational security measures to minimise the possibility of the loss or unauthorised access of your personal data.

Your rights

We will ensure you can exercise your rights in relation to the personal data you provide to us, for example:

- Where we are relying on your consent to use your personal data, you can withdraw that consent by unsubscribing from our services or writing to the Data Protection Officer. Details are available at the top of this notice.
- You can request access to the personal data we hold about you or ask for certain data in a machine-readable format by contacting the Data Protection Officer.
- You can ask us to update your personal data if it changes. In certain circumstances, you can request we erase the personal data we hold or ask us to stop or restrict processing if you have an objection.
- If you have any concerns relating to the use of your personal data, you may complain to the Data Protection Officer.

Further details about your rights can be found on the Information Commissioner's website

What if you do not provide your data?

This is a specific circumstance in which we rely on your personal data to facilitate services to you. Whilst there is no obligation to provide your personal information it may affect the effectiveness of the recruitment process if you do not. For example, you are required to provide us with certain personal data for security purposes to be able to gain security clearance to work at the Houses of Parliament.

Right to complain

If you are unhappy with the processing of your personal data, you should contact the Data Protection Officer in the first instance. You also have the right to complain to the supervisory authority if you consider that your data protection rights have been breached. The supervisory authority is the Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF, <https://ico.org.uk/>

Further details about your rights and the complaints process can be found on the Information Commissioner's website here