

Dotdash

Hiring Page

Dotdash is a branding platform that creates content and develops brands in various areas, including banking, travel, and weddings. The company is looking for skilled editors specialized in the respective fields of each brand to help polish the content it produces.

eCorrector

Hiring Page

eCORRECTOR is a specialized proofreading service for scientific and technical papers. Editors are required to have a doctoral degree to be hired and are then given papers in their respective field to proofread. Experienced academic translators are also welcome to apply for translation work.

Edanz

Hiring Page

Edanz Group provides editing and other author services to the writers of research papers. The company is looking for professional freelancer editors with a PhD or at least three years of experience working as dedicated scientific editors to support the team in Fukuoka, Japan, remotely.

Edit 24/7

Hiring Page

Edit 24/7 provides professional proofreading and light editing services around the clock. Applicants should submit a writing sample and either their resume or a description of their previous work experience relevant to editing.

EditorLive

Hiring Page

EditorLive provides editing services for academic and business papers. Editors must have a firm grasp on the English language as well as various style guides used in academia and business. Editors pick up work in four-hour collection periods and may have to work outside of the collection period to complete the papers they picked up.

First Editing

Hiring Page

First Editing is an editing and proofreading service for authors and academic writers. Applicants should submit a resume, cover letter, and electronic samples of their editing work with MS Word's Track Changes feature enabled. Editors must work for a minimum of 25 hours per week and are ideally located outside of a North American time zone.