Rules inside the museum

There are rules inside the museum.

You must follow these rules:

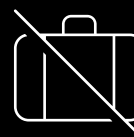

It is forbidden
to touch
the works of art.

You are only allowed
to take photos
without flash.

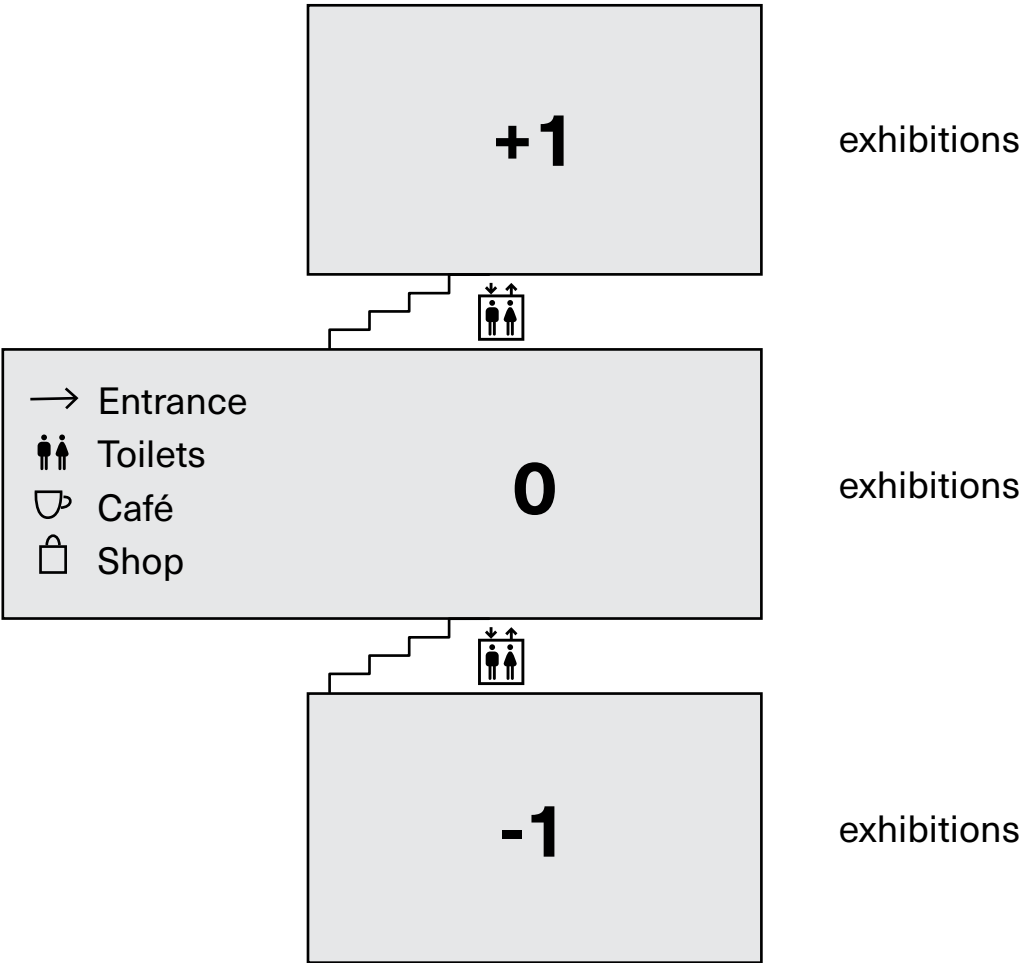

You are only allowed
to eat and drink
in the Café.

You must put big bags
in the locker room.

The building plan

Here is a map of the museum.
You can see artworks on three floors.

If you need help,
you can always ask for it
at reception or staff.

Mudam

Mudam stands for Musée D'Art Moderne.

This is French.

It means Modern Art Museum.

It is pronounced muzee dar modern.

Art of our time

At Mudam, there is not just modern art.

There is also contemporary art.

It means art which is new.

Techniques

Artworks always look different.

They were created using different techniques.

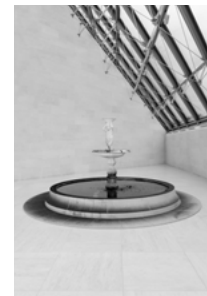

Some examples are:

photography

painting

sculpture

The exhibitions

15

You can see a lot of artworks at Mudam.
They are divided into areas.
An area is called an exhibition.

8

An exhibition often features artworks of one artist.
There are also exhibitions that have a theme
and show multiple artists.
A theme can be: time, technology, nature.

There are many exhibitions
at the same time at Mudam.

The exhibitions change
a few times a year.

So, there are always
new artworks to see.

We can see the beginning
of an exhibition
by the poster on the wall.

The building

The museum looks like an artwork, too.
It is constructed of stone, glass and metal.

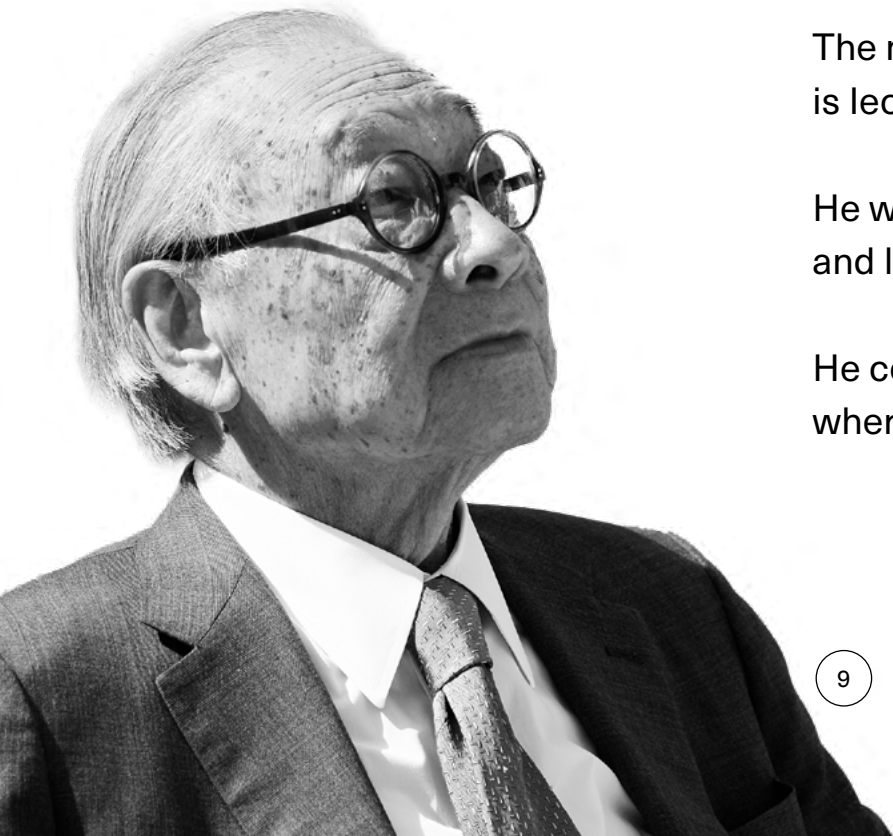

The stone is very light and sandy.
It is called the Magny Doré.
It is pronounced like this: Maani doree.
It is from France.

The architect

The name of the architect is Ieoh Ming Pei.

He was born in China
and lived in America.

He could choose the place
where Mudam is now.

A fortress

When you stand in front of the museum,
it looks like a fortress.

A fortress is often a thick wall.
For example, a fortress protects a city.
You can not see very well inside.
Everything is hidden.
It is on purpose.

A long time ago, part of the fortress stood here.
You can still see it today:
the museum stands on the old walls.
You can see that the new stone is placed on top of the old one.

The architect Pei found this very interesting.
He wanted to combine the old and the new of Luxembourg.

In the museum, everything is very big and bright.
The Grand Hall is a large space full of light, because the windows and the glass roof are so big.

Everything is very open.
We can always look outside.
The view is also very nice.
The windows are like paintings which Pei included in the museum.

You can also see the old fortress and the three golden acorns.

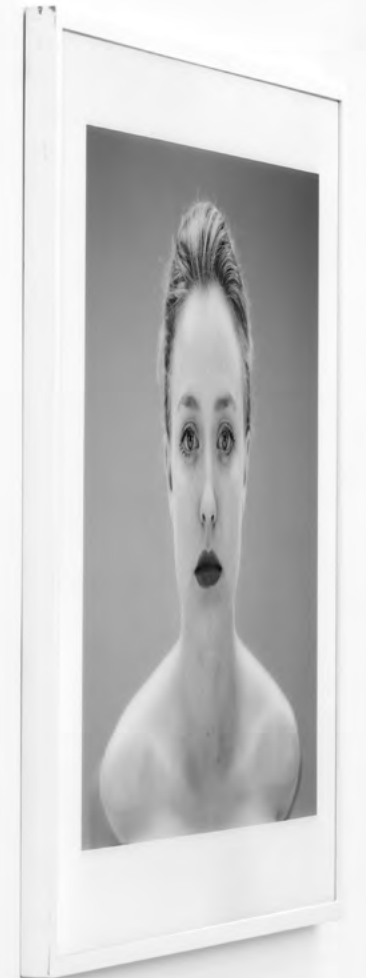

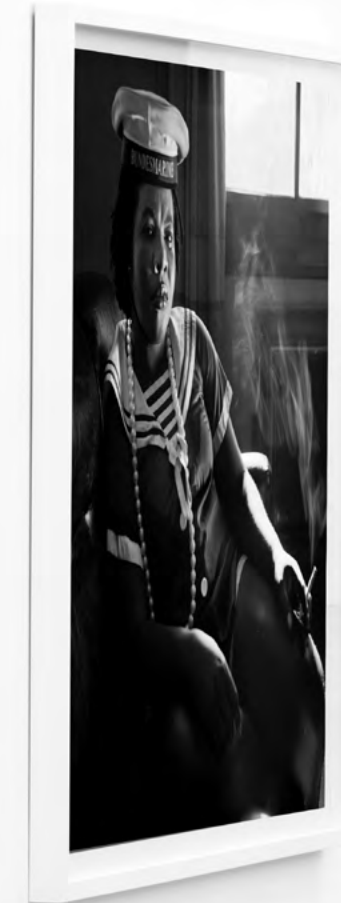

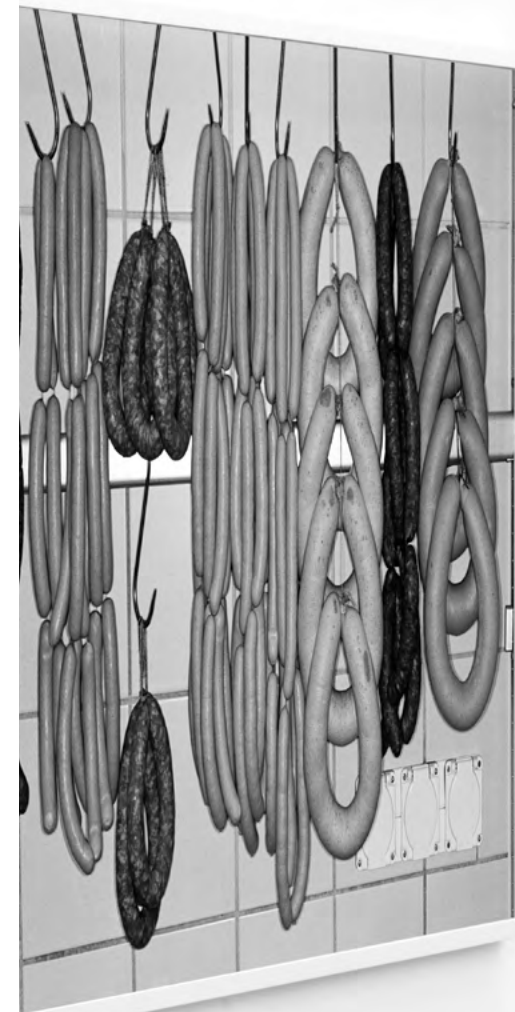

The collection

What is an art collection?

An art collection is a group of artworks.
These works belong to the museum.
They are exhibited in the museum
A part is also stored in the museum.
Almost every museum has a collection.

Works of art must match the collection.
It is important, that the works of art are not too old.
The works here were all created between the 1960s and today.

There are over 800 works of art in the Mudam Collection.
54 works were created especially for the museum.
The artworks are made by artists from Luxembourg.
And also by artists from other countries.

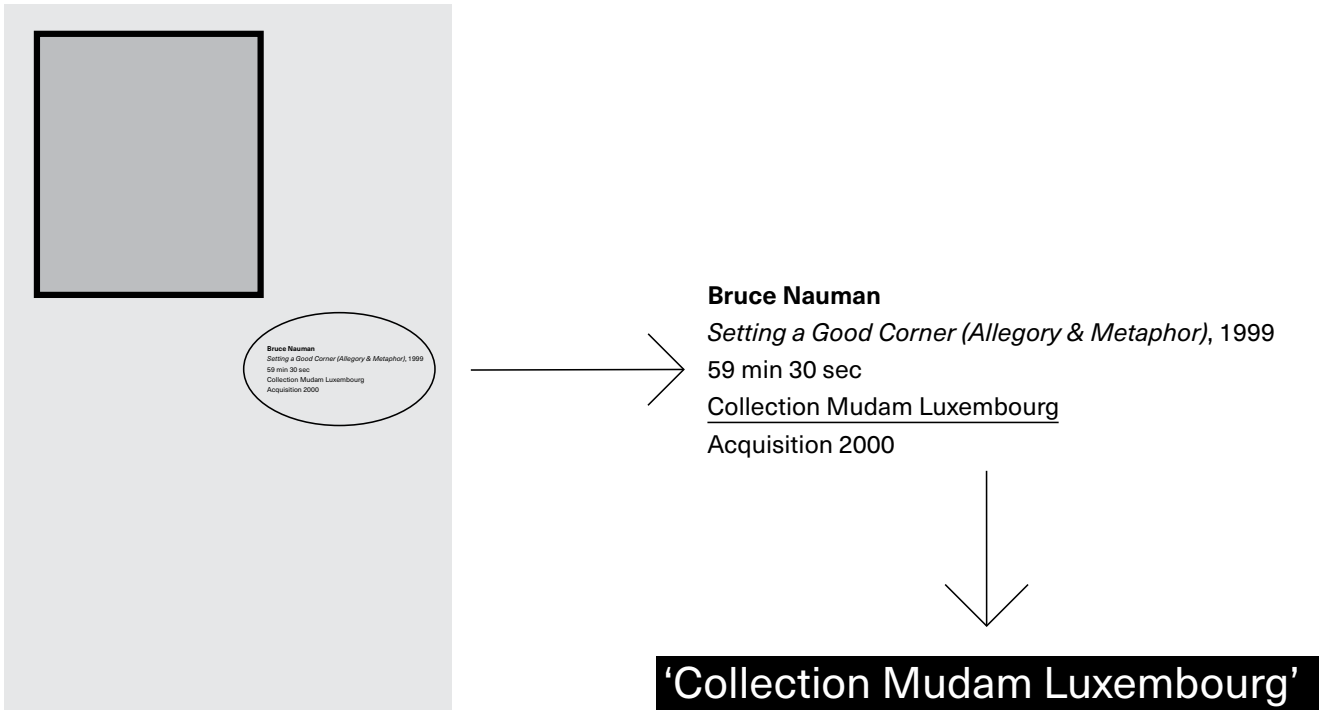

You must good care of the artworks
because they must stay in the same condition.
They must not be damaged
and they must not be stolen.

Each artwork is cared for differently.
This is called conservation.
Some artworks are stored in a single box.
For other artworks, several boxes are needed.

But we can not present all the artworks
of the collection at the same time.
There are too many.
There are exhibitions with a presentation
of many artworks of the collection.

The exhibitions change often.
So you can always see new artworks.

You can see if the artwork is from the Mudam Collection
at the mention next to it.
It says ‘Collection Mudam Luxembourg’.
